USASRDL 88 CLUB MEMBERS -- Four of the men in the U. S. Army Signal Research and Development Laboratory who worked on Project Score and were in on the secret -- that is, members of the "88 Club," before the satellite was fired, review the operation in a chalk talk. Left to right: Marshall Davis, Herbert Hawkins, John Cittadino and Samuel P. Brown. Brown was project manager for USASRDL. An Atlas ICBM was used as the launching vehicle. The communications system was contained in two special pods.
